Mr. F. N. Ballard, manager of the Union Bank, has been confined to the house through sickness for the last few days, but latest reports state that he is on the road to recovery.

Mr. M. Haug, who has been with the Carbon branch of the Union Bank for some time, has been transferred to the Didsbury branch of the same bank and Mr. McEwan has taken Mr. Haug's place at Carbon.

The annual conference of the M. B. C. of Alberta will convene in the Didsbury church on Dec. 9th and 10th. The ministerial convention will be held at the same place on the 8th. Everybody welcome to all the sessions.

S. R. Hills of Alask, Sask., was a visitor in town on Saturday last and in conversation with a representative of the Pioneer he stated that Messrs. N. Eby, S. S. Stauffer, B. Ruxton and others who left this district were making good out there and that Alask is growing very fast.

If you want the best get the best in hockey shoes. See J. V. Berscht.

A big reduction sale is being held at Studer & Co.'s store. See their ad. for prices on page 5 of this issue—it contains big bargains.

Curlers Notice—The annual meeting of the Curling Club will be held in the sample rooms of the Golden West Hotel on Friday evening, December 2nd, at 8 o'clock sharp. Election of officers and other business of importance. W. G. Liesemer, president.

Fred Hart, the shoemaker has moved his workshop from Reitzel & Kalbfleisch's store and will now be found on Main St. between the flour and feed store and the harness shop. Don't forget, when you want your shoes fixed, to make straight for the flour and feed building. Don't forget!

Agricultural Society

A large meeting will be held in the Opera House on Thursday, December 8th, at 8 o'clock p. m.

The annual election of officers will be held and other business of an important nature to the interests of the Society will come up. The most important, perhaps, is the resignation of the Secretary, Mr. H. B. Atkins, who has held the position for the last seven years and whose energetic work has brought the annual Fair to its present high point of excellence. It is to be hoped that enough pressure will be brought upon him to reconsider his resignation as the Society will lose a valuable and hard working officer, and his place will be hard to fill with another who will take the interest that he has done in Society matters. Everybody come to the meeting.

Municipal Matters

Next Monday is nomination day and a week later is election day. A Mayor, four Councillors and three School Trustees will have to be nominated and elected this year.

The annual town and school meeting will be held on Nomination day, the meeting taking place in the Opera House where the nominations will be held.

Mayor Atkins has stated that he will not be a candidate for a second term in the Mayor's chair as it takes too much time from his business, which is to be regretted as he has filled the position not only with dignity but with good business sense and impartiality.

So far as heard there is no person who seems anxious to fill the positions.

Mr. John N. Watkins, 3128
Boulevard, St. Louis, Mo., writes:
"Among all the greatly advertised medicines for kidney and bladder trouble there is nothing as good as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People."
"I suffered for several years with this trouble, spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicine and all to no purpose until I took Peruna."
"One bottle
did more good

others put together, as they only relieved my system. Peruna cured me. I used it for four months before a complete cure was accomplished, but am truly grateful to you. The least I can do in return is to acknowledge the merits of Peruna, which I take pleasure in now doing."

Bladder Trouble.
Mr. C. E. Newcomb, to Delaware street, Albany, N. Y., writes:
"Since my advanced age I find that I have been frequently troubled with urinary ailments. The bladder seemed irritated, and my physician said it was catarrh caused by a protracted cold which would be difficult to overcome on account of my advanced years.
I took Peruna, hardly daring to believe that I would be helped, but found to my relief that I soon began to mend.
The irritation gradually subsided, and the urinary difficulties passed away. I have enjoyed excellent health now for the past seven months. I enjoy my meal, sleep soundly, and am as well as I was twenty years ago. I give all praise to Peruna."

23 THE PR

WARRANT FOR CONDUCTOR.

Wanted for Stealing Fares and Selling Tickets.

(From Montreal Gazette.) Judge Lanctot, at the request of the crown prosecutor, has issued a bench warrant for the arrest of E. Smith, a former sleeping-car conductor in the employ of the Canadian Pacific Railway company, who at one time ran between Montreal and Vancouver, and later between Montreal and Toronto.

Early in October information reached the crown authorities which led up to Smith's arrest for stealing sleeping car fares, and for stealing and selling railway tickets to various persons in Montreal and elsewhere. Smith had a preliminary hearing and was committed for trial to the Court of King's Bench, his case being set for the 16th.
When called, he failed to appear, with the result that his bail was forfeited and a bench warrant issued for his arrest.

The case caused a good deal of interest in railway circles, and it is probable that other than railway people will have been interested in the names and addresses of quite a number of people with whom he has been stealing fares, and it is likely that before the matter is finally disposed of several of the hunters of vagabonds in railway transportation will be dealt with.

It is really too bad," said a high official of the Canadian Pacific, "that the travelling public should suggest such dishonour to conductors. If passengers would refrain from making conductors steal from the company by offering them facilities and incentives to do so, it would be better for them in every way. We have the names of a great many men who have done this in Montreal and other places, and they include some of the prominent men. Morally they are as guilty, if not more so, than the conductors whom they train to be stealers, and the practice of trying to get this money transferred at the expense of the company and the discredit of the conductors cannot be too strongly repressed."
In the present instance it has led to the arrest of a young man, and the breaking up of his home. While we are sorry for those who suffer by it, it is a natural stop to a life of stealing fares, and prosecution will follow every instance that is discovered.

Weak, Sickly Babies Make Home Wretched

No home is happy where there is a sickly, feeble baby. The mother watches for him and his mother would not rather suffer herself than see her little one suffer. But there is no need for this. Baby's Own Tablets will cure all the minor ills of babyhood and childhood; not only that, but an occasional dose of the Tablets will keep baby well, cheerful, and happy through the happiest of his life. Baby's Own Tablets will keep baby well and happy. Among them is Mrs. C. R. of Georgetown, Ont., who writes: "I can heartily recommend Baby's Own Tablets as a help to the baby during the hot summer season. We have used them and are much pleased with their results. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers, or by mail, at one dollar a box from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brooklyn, Ont."

"What d'yer fink of the new tags, Emory?"

"Absolutely pulketic. They couldn't be better if you was born in 'em!" —London Opinion.

Often what appear to be the most trivial occurrences in life prove to be the most momentous. Many are disposed to regard a cold as a slight thing, deserving of little consideration, and this neglect often results in serious ailments entailing years of suffering. Drive out colds and coughs with Bickel's Anti-Croup and Cough Syrup, the remedy for all affections of the throat and lungs.

ried you used to admire my strength bornness now."

Brothers-in-Law
In an English town a gentleman and a countryman entered a cage on the travelling zoo from opposite directions. The cage contained a very fierce-looking kangaroo. The countryman gazed at the wild animal for a few minutes with wonder and eyes both open, and then, turning to the gentleman, he asked,
"What kind of animal is that?"
"Oh," replied the gentleman, "that is a native of Australia."
The countryman covered his eyes with his hands as he heard the word. "Well, well, my sister married one of them!"—Judge.

pleased to learn that there is at least one dreadful disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity.
Catarrh being a constitutional disease requires a constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constituwork. The proprietors have so much

A Cure for Rheumatism.—A painful fectually cured many remarkable cases, and their use is strongly recommended.

A trial of them will convince anyone

Chilblains come from undue ex-from the icy winds of winter. In the treatment of either there is no better preparation than Dr. Thomas' Election and relieves the pain. The action of the oil is instantaneous and its application is extremely simple.

ROYAL YEAST
Winnipeg
MADE IN CANADA

From Cabin Boy to Millionaire.

He is very wealthy now, but there was a day when Sir Thomas Lipton hadn't a penny. He started work as an errand boy; afterwards went to America as a cabin boy, and on ar-ival a hotel agent lured him among the passengers. Seeing the boy's forlorn and hearing he was destitute, the agent offered ten days' free board and lodging if he could bring twice as many to the ship. The young Lipton undertaken at once, because he had become very friendly with the emigrants through writing their letters, he being the only one in the stewardage who could read and write.
The emigrants were very willing to go to the hotel, and the boy got his free board and time to look round for a letter.

Today Sir Thomas, who is going on a voyage to Ceylon in his yacht Ensign, is probably the greatest clubman of the world, for he is honorary member of nearly a hundred clubs in America alone, besides many dozens in Great Britain. A confirmed bachelor, Sir Thomas has been the most "Press-mart" man in the Kingdom, rum-mors having been frequently about of his impending marriage. In this connection he has held a very amusing story of a somewhat nasty trick that was played on a bachelor friend of his own. A lady was one day re-proaching him for never having married, when her husband remarked goodhumoredly: "He says he can't have cut me out and married you if he had wanted to." "Indeed," she exclaimed, with some severity, "who did he do it to then?" "He says," was the calm reply, "that he owed me a guinea."

When He Married on Faith.

"Dad's mother's lak' faith," said Brother William. "I once prayed a lat turkey off a high roof, but de devil took him cum me ez I was goin' home ter cook him, and I was lost ter jail."

"Why didn't you pray your way out of jail?" some one asked.

"I would a' done it," was the reply,
"but I didn't want Providence ter kiss me in no such place!"

Don't Use Dust.

A certain philosopher flourished during the chestnut and whisker age, albeit of a general disposition, calm on morning and in his pretty surface polishing his eccentricities.

"Don't clean my furniture, fair maiden?" he inquired facetiously.

"I dust," replied the maid.

Whereat the philosopher laughed hugely and gave her a sausage.

IT IS NEWS WORTH GIVING TO THE WORLD

HOW RAVAGES OF KIDNEY DIS-EASE ARE CHECKED IN QUEBEC.

Mrs. Julien Painchaud, for seven years a sufferer, finds quick relief and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Whitecourt, Temiscanite Co., Que., (Special).—With the coming of winter the ravages of Kidney Disease are again felt in this province, and the fact that a cure cure is vouchsafed in this village is news worth giving to the world. Mrs. Julien Painchaud is the person cured and she states without hesitation that she found her cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For seven years my heart and Kidneys bothered me," Mrs. Painchaud states, "I was always tired and nervous.
I could not sleep. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. My eyes had dark circles under them and were puffed and swollen. I was so ill I could hardly drag myself around to do my housework."

"A neighbor advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I found relief in the first box. Six boxes made me perfectly well."

"You have any two of Mrs.
Painchaud's symptoms your Kidneys are diseased. Cure them and guard against serious, if not fatal results by using Dodd's Kidney Pills."

"Mamma," said Ethel, returning from school with a most discouraged appearance. "I never, never, going to work any more!" "Why, dearie, what's the matter?" inquired the surprised mother. "I don't want to study!" "Cause it's no use," was the impulsive answer. "It's no use at all," said the mother, "learn spelling."

the time!"

A general meeting of the Agricultural Society is called for Thursday as will be seen in another column of this issue and as there is business of great importance to the welfare of the society it is hoped that there will be a big attendance at this meeting both of town members and business men as well as country members. One of the important things that will have to be taken up is the appointing of a new secretary-Treasurer and also Directors for the coming year. In conversation with the present Secretary, Mr. H. B. Atkins, a few days ago, a representative of the Pioneer learned that he had absolutely made up his mind to resign the secretaryship which he has held with such great success for the last four or five years and whose untiring devotion to the interests of the Society has brought the Fair and other Society work up to the standard it has reached today. So make it a point to be at this meeting and hear all about Agricultural Society matters and take a little interest in your town.

If you read the report of the last Council meeting you have seen that a movement has been started looking toward the installation of electric light in this town. Of course the proposition is still in embryo but matters are taken up right there is no reason why our streets should not be in a better condition than at present at night. It is simply dangerous for the town to stay any longer in its present condition. Mr. Weber has expressed a willingness to meet the Council in this matter, but of course it will have to be taken up by the new Council as there is no time for the present Council to look into it. We understand that Mr.
Weber will supply the power if the town will erect the lines and poles, and since the town is not large enough to put in a power plant of its own we see no reason why the idea could not be worked out if everybody would assist in supporting the idea by lighting their business places and residences.

The Man From Brodney's

CHAPTER XVIII.
THE PERMAN ANGEL.
THE man called Abou suddenly leaped to his feet and, with the cry of an angry animal, sprang to her side. His arms closed about her slender figure with the unmistakable lust of the victor. A hoarse, inarticulate cry of rage burst from Deppingham's lips. His figure shot out through the air and down the short slope with the rush of an infuriated steed. Even as the astonished Abou

He was felled to the earth by a mighty blow.

dropped his struggling burden to meet the attack of the unexpected deliverer, he was felled to the earth by a mighty blow from the rifle which his assailant swung swift and true. His skull was crushed as if it were an eggshell.

Lady Agnes struggled to her feet, wild-eyed, half crazed by the double assault. The next instant she fell forward upon her face, dead to all that was to follow in the next few minutes.

There was no struggle. Chase and Selim were upon the stupefied islanders before they could move, covering them with their rifles. The wretches fell upon their knees and howled for mercy. While Deppingham was holding his wife's limp form in his arms, calling out to her in the agony of fear, utterly oblivious to all else that was happening about him, his two friends were swiftly despatching the groveling natives. Selim's knife severed the cords that bound Bobby Browne's hands. He was staring blankly, dazedly before him.

Ten minutes later Chase was addressing himself to the four islanders who, bound and gagged, were tied by their own sashes to trees some distance from the roadside.

"I've just thought of a little service you fellows can perform for me in return for what I've done for you. All the time you're doing it, however, there will be plenty quite close to your backs. Lady Deppingham is much too weak to take the five mile walk we've got to do in the next two hours—or less. You are to have the honor of carrying her four miles and a half, and you will have to get along the best you can with the guns in your rear with two of you form a basket with your hands. I'll show you how."

With Selim in the lead, the little procession moved swiftly but cautiously, through the black jungle, until, almost reaching the gate if possible before the night lifted, Chase and Bobby Browne brought up the rear with two of the reserve carriers in hand. Browne, weak and suffering from torture and exposure, struggled heavily along, determined not to retard their progress by a single moment of indecision.

In his heart Browne was now raging against the fate that had placed him in this humiliating, almost contemptible position. He, and he alone, was responsible for the sufferings that Lady Agnes had endured. It was an evil and wormwood to him that other men had been ordained to save her from the misery that he had created. He could almost have welcomed death for himself and her rather than to have been saved by George Deppingham.

His wife! He could never be the same to her. He had forfeited the trust and confidence of the one loyal believer among them all. And now Lady Deppingham loathed him because his weakness had been greater than hers!

When he would have slain the four belated islanders with his own hands Hollingsworth Chase had stared his rage with the single, caustic adjuration: "Keep out of this, Brown! You've been enough of a blunder without trying that sort of thing."

Tears were in Bobby Browne's eyes as he mused after he blundered along, his heart bleeding itself dry through the wound those words had made.

It was still pitch dark when they came to the ridge above the park. Through the trees the lighter in the clouds could be seen. Lady Agnes opened her eyes and cried out in tremulous joy.

"You've labored well and faithfully," Chase said to the pausing islanders, "and I'm going to reward you. I'm going to set you free, but not yet. Don't rejoice. First we shall tie you securely to four stout trees just off the road. Just as soon as we are inside the walls I'll find some way to let your friends know that you are here."

He and Selim promptly marched the bewildered islanders into the woods. Bobby Browne, utterly exhausted, had thrown himself to the ground. Lady Deppingham was standing, aching, but resolute, her gaze upon the distant friendly windows. After a long, tense moment of indecision she held out her hands, and Deppingham sprang forward in time to catch her as she swayed toward him. She was sobbing in his arms. Bobby Browne's heavy breathing ceased in that instant, and he closed his ears against the sound that came to them.

Deppingham gently implored her to sit down with him and rest. At last she said:

"I've made you unhappy. I've been so foolish. It has not been fun either, my husband. God knows it hasn't. You do not love me now."

He did not answer her at once, and she shivered fearfully in his arms. Then he kissed her gently. "I do love you, Agnes," he said impulsively. "I will answer for my own life and my soul's peace. Are you the same Agnes that you were—my Agnes?"

"Will you believe me?"

"Yes."

"I am the same Agnes. I am your Agnes. I am. You do believe me?"

He cradled her close to his breast and then patted her shoulder as a father might have touched an erring child.

At last she spoke: "I is not wholly his fault, George. I was to blame. I led him on. You understand?"

"Poor devil!" he said dryly. "It's a wonder you did not die at all."

The object of this gentle commiseration was staring with gloomy eyes at the lights below. He was saying to himself: "I was wrong and over-zealous. If I can only make Drusie understand!"

Chase and Selim came down upon this little low mound. The former paused an instant and smiled joyously in the darkness.

"Five men are near the gate," he whispered. "The watch so closely that no one may go to rescue those who have disappeared. Friends are hidden inside the wall, ready to open the gate to a sally. They have waited with Neneah all night. And day is near, surely."

"We must attack at once," said Chase. "Quiet now!"

Five shadowy figures soon were distinguished huddled close to the wall below the gate. The sense of sight had become blind during those trying hours in the darkness.

The islanders were conversing in low voices, one or two now and then reaching the ears of the others.

Suddenly a blinding, mysterious light flashed upon the muzzling group. As they fell back, a single, low and firm, called out to them:

"Not a sound or you die!"

Four unwavering rifles were bearing down upon the surprised men, and four very material men were advancing from the ghastly darkness. An electric lantern shot a ray of light here and there across the scene.

"Drop your guns—quick!" commanded Chase. "Don't make a row!"

Paralyzed with fear and amazement, the men obeyed.

While the three white men kept covered with their rifles Selim ran to the gate, uttering the shrill cry of a night bird. There was a rush of feet inside the walls, subdued exclamations, then a glad cry.

"Quick!" called Selim. The keys rattled in the locks, the bolts were thrown down, and an instant later Lady Deppingham was flying across the space which intervened between her and the gate.

The men were beside her a moment later, possessed of the weapons of the hapless sentinels. With a crash the gates were closed, and a joyous laugh rang out from the exultant throat of Hollingsworth Chase.

"By the Lord Harry, this is worth while!" he shouted, "outside the mad-dog guard were sounding the tardy alarm. The first gray shade of day was coming into the night."

He saw Neneah ahead of him, standing still in the center of the gravelled path. Beyond her was the tall figure of a man.

"You are a trump, Neneah," cried Chase, hurrying up to her, "a Persian angel!"

It was not Neneah's laugh that replied. Chase stopped in amazement and then uttered a cry of joy.

That Cold Room

on the side of the house where winter blasts strike hardest always has a lower temperature than the rest of the house. There are times when it is necessary to raise the temperature quickly or to keep the temperature up for a long period. That can't be done by the regular method of heating without great trouble and overheating the rest of the house. The only reliable method of heating such a room alone by other means is to use a which can be kept at full or low heat for a short or long time. Four quarts of oil will give a glowing heat for nine hours, without smoke or smell.

An indicator always shows the amount of oil in the font. Filler-cock does not screw on; but is put in like a cork in a bottle, and is anchored by a chain and cannot get loose. An automatic-locking flame spreader prevents the wick from being turned high enough to smoke, and is easy to remove and drop back so that it can be cleaned in an instant. The burner body or gasket cannot become wedged, and can be unclogged in an instant by twisting. Finished in light or nickel, strong, durable, well-made, built for service, and yet light and ornamental. Has a cool handle.

Your Time Is Not Yours

It Belongs to Those Depending on You. For Their Sakes Preserve Health and Strength.

You never thought of it just this way before. While not feeling well you have neglected to take active means of restoring health, thinking all the time that you were the only one to suffer by delay.

Not so. For who among us has not someone depending on him for comfort, happiness or the means of livelihood?

When you lie awake nights, worry over little things, get nervous and irritable, have indigestion and headaches, you may be sure the nervous system is being exhausted.

Time is not yours to delay. You must call a halt to the wasting process. Otherwise you will have a raw, awakening some day, when prostration, paralysis or locomotor ataxia will be your lot. For such is the natural and inevitable result of neglected nervous diseases.

You can restore the nervous system by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Being composed of Nature's most potent nerve restoratives, it can't fail to benefit you. Each dose must of necessity bring you nearer to health, strength and vigor.

Mr. William Branton, Victoria, B. C., writes: "Before using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food my nervous system seemed all unstrung. I could not sleep, had no appetite, my nerves were cold, my digestion was poor and I had jacking of the limbs. The first box of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food helped me, and I continued until I had taken twenty-four boxes. The treatment has made a radical change in my condition, building up the system and strengthening the nerves."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all druggists, or Elman-on, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Less Responsibility

"How is it, ma'am you pay the other nurse girl, $10 a month more than you do me?"

"Why, Annie," replied her mistress, "Marie takes care of Fido while you have merely to look after the children!"—Judge.

A Pill That Proves Its Value.

Those of weak stomach will find strength in Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, because they serve to maintain the healthful action of the stomach and the liver, regularities in which are most distressing. Dyspepsia is well acquainted with them and values them at their proper worth. They have afforded relief when other preparations have failed, and have effected cures in ailments of long standing where other medicines were found unavailing.

Small Girl—"Why doesn't baby talk, Father?" "He can't talk yet, dear. Young folks never do."

Small Girl—"Oh, yes, they do. Job did. Nurse read me out of the Bible how he cursed the day he was born."

DAME FASHIONS DECREES

If there is one thing that can make the heat of midsummer bearable this year it is the charm of the lingerie gowns that are designed for the warmest days. In the thinnest frocks it has been impossible to carry out many of the eccentricities which prevail in all other styles of dress. The material probably would not allow of the skirt being so narrow that the wearer is forced into a mining step curiously different from the long, vigorous stride one has grown accustomed to in the modern woman. Nevertheless, there are no suggestions of flate or fulness in this dress, only a trifle greater width at the feet, and it is this scarcely appreciable difference which makes the lingerie gown so much more attractive than any other dress of the moment.

The newest lingerie frocks are all adorned with either ribbon or satin, or even velvet, the simplest showing a sash ungraceful as could be imagined, but is not necessary, and the effect can always be avoided by clever manipulation of the fabric.

The models of the moment are practically impossible to carry out in any unlined lingerie gown. The only way to keep the dress cool is to have the lining of as sheer a quality of lawn, or even mouseline de soie, as possible to have it still fit well. In midsummer a silk or satin lining is well nigh out of the question, but then when it comes to making half of a lingerie gown of velvet, and black velvet at that, it would seem that comfort could not be the first consideration in the fashions of the present season.

Black is the reigning shade of the moment, there is no question of that, and were it not for the very great discomfort, it is probable that black would now be worn at all times in the day or evening. The smartest afternoon dresses are black and white, and the newest frocks of really summer material are in great majority white and black. The combination of black velvet with embroidered lawn is, however, rather too extreme to be likely to be very generally worn. And yet a gown of English embroidery finished from just above the knees with a band of black velvet, a black velvet girdle about the waist and worn with a touch of black velvet, and a parasol of the black velvet also carried, looked not too extraordinarily to be delightfully smart.

Black satin is also used to make half of the new lingerie frock. Then the parasol and hat are also of the black satin, the parasol faced with chiffon to soften it. There are a few white lace gowns placed over black chiffon, just out of consideration to the multitudes of colored costumes draped in chiffon, but it remains to be seen whether the curious tone of grey thus obtained will meet with great popular approval. Several bodies of finest applique lace made up on a foundation of black chiffon are undeniably very smart, as are also the lace waists veiled in black. It is a curious fashion to cover costly lace in this way, but then there is scarcely one feature in the entire realm of fashion at the present moment which is not curious. In the striving for the novel, many extraordinary results have been arrived at certainly.

In the gowns of which half the skirt is composed of a foreign material the open English embroidery or ecote hole work is more generally seen than the raised embroidery. Valenciennes and baby Irish are about equally fashionable, and there are many combinations of "cluny" and even tulle lace that are very beautiful. Whole gowns of Irish lace are still the envied possession of all who can purchase them, but this year the beauty of the lace is shown to unusual advantage by the contrast of the broad bands of colored satin or of black velvet with which the costume is made up. A sash with a great butterfly bow and long ends at the back of the tulle was effective on one Irish lace costume, and these tall sashes are already to be seen in the different colors.

When colors are used at all it may safely be said that brilliant tints predominate; that true rose pink is used in ribbon trimming on a large number of lingerie frocks, and that lavender, as one of the coolest, is one of the most popular.

Embroidered Handkerchief Linen Gown with Flowered Satin Belt

and various rosettes, etc., of a bright colored ribbon, while the more elaborate models are really combinations of silk or satin with embroidered batiste or French mouseline. The principal trimming is still generally on the underskirt tucks, lace insertions, flat bands of ribbon or bias silk, all made to show through the transparent outer covering, really force a lining to be attached to the gown. The more heavily embroidered the lower half of the skirt will be of plain satin of an exquisite shade of rose pink or brilliant blue, while a wide girdle of the same carries the color up to the waist. This band is perhaps one-half a yard in width and does not appear but much more than in its length about the feet, although one yard is professed to be the narrowest possible for a skirt in which the wearer can walk without aid.

One model that is extremely pretty in the lingerie frocks shows an overskirt falling just to the knees, beneath which is a tight band of satin, and then another fall of the material to the ankles. Ordinarily this could be described as a two-piece skirt, yet the word flounce can scarcely be employed for such a strangely narrow, absolutely not flaring use of material. The ribbon which forms the band about the knees and is also introduced as a girdle about the waist is extremely smart in a bright shade of cerise or one of the season's exquisite tones of mauve or heliotrope.

Still another method of combining or introducing a color with a lingerie frock is by running ribbon or bands of silk in and out through the embroidery; by this means also holding the material in, so that it shall hang straight from waist to hem. In an effort to guard against flare at the ankles many of the skirts of the moment are caught in, so as to give a curious, balloon-like look to the figure, which is about as far of summer hues. Cerise is seen to a considerable extent, but this is not a year of color. Mourning in England seems to have cast its shadow over all the world of fashion, or perhaps the effect of black and white that prevails at every gathering of note in Great Britain has proved more artistic than gloomy, and well worthy of being copied by other nations.

Cream color and a delicate tone of cerise are even smarter than white for the lingerie frock. With colorings of rose color or mauve a pure white frock now looks almost crude beside the softer cream colored lingerie dress. The simple embroidered muslin is always best in plain white, but the very elaborate gowns, which are really in true sense lace dresses, are charming in the softer tones.

White chiffon and mouseline de soie are both worn considerably for afternoon this summer. Although made up necessarily on boned and fitted silk linings, these chiffon and mouseline gowns are to be seen in such the same models as the so-called lingerie dresses. More elaborate as regards embroidery and cuteness of lace, perhaps, if this were possible, than the embroidered batiste gowns, these gowns are still not very different in character from veiled effects—chiffon laid over a really elaborate and finished underdress of silk, lace and ribbon are seen in many numbers—but whether the fashion is a lasting one is doubtful.

Cafe on Fifth in New York, said of his failure a few days before he returned to Europe: "I didn't understand, I've afraid, the taste of New York. It is peculiar. New York contains a good many judges of the outside. The Judge, Mr. McKim, the story goes, made his pit in Arizona. He then returned to San Francisco to spend the rest of his days in luxury. He had $300,000. The judge was dazzled by the splendor and opulence of San Francisco, but he did not let this bewilder him. Quite the contrary, in fact. The morning after his arrival Judge McKim entered the breakfast room of San Francisco's largest hotel, and having studied the complex scene a long while, he said to the waiter: 'Young man, some friends. Beg pardon, sir. Some what?' and the waiter. The judge smiled. 'You don't speak Spanish,

District Convention

The Second District Convention of "The Christian Workers" of the Evangelical Association in Alberta" convened in the First Evangelical church at Warner, Alta., Nov. 15 to 18 inclusive. The convention from start to finish was full of good things. It brought much needed encouragement to the faithful workers who are scattered over the broad prairies of our fair province.

Several who had been expected were unable to attend, nevertheless the gaps thus made were ably filled and the programme was carried out to all intents and purposes, as previously announced. The services rendered by the Rev. L. H. Wagner, superintendent of missions for the northwest, Regina, Sask. the Rev. C. S. Finkbeiner, Didsbury, Alta., and the Rev. A. Clemons of Milk River, were greatly appreciated and deserve special mention.

The call to the equipment for, and the methods to be employed in Christian work were all very thoroughly discussed. Work among the young people and the question of temperance and moral reform, popular amusements and Sabbath observance were likewise treated in a very beneficial manner. The mottoes, "For the Glory of God and the Good of Man," "Alberta for Christ," and "By This Sign, Conquer," which appropriately decorated the church show the object of the convention, and also reveal the Name and the strength through which this object is to be realized.

The officers for the ensuing year are the same as last year, namely Rev. H. L. Wagner, P. E., president; Rev. C. S. Finkbeiner, vice president, and Rev. A. T. Nash, secretary-treasurer. It was decided that a convention similar to this one be held next year and that the arrangements for the same be left in the hands of the executive committee.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, we are informed by a letter from Rev. D. Reider, of Dunkirk, Mont., to Bro. Wagner, of the serious illness with which he is attacked, making it impossible for him to be with us, therefore Resolved 1st, that we heartily reciprocate his cordial greetings, regretting very much, however, his absence.

2nd, That we extend to him our sincere sympathy in his affliction and assure him of our united prayers to Almighty God in his behalf. We hope and trust our Heavenly Father will make even this visitation redound to His honor and glory and to the ultimate good of all concerned. Rom. 8, 28. Signed in behalf of the convention. H. L. Wagner, president; A. T. Nash, secretary

Concrete Sidewalks are Safe, Sightly and Everlasting

LU MBER used in damp places and on wet ground—as, for instance, in walks—has a very short life. It requires almost constant repairing and, in a few years, needs replacing.

Concrete, on the other hand, improves with age, and the very dampness which destroys lumber calls out the best qualities of the cement by making it harder and harder—until neither time nor traffic can affect it.

The best of wooden walks keep getting out of repair, and are a continual menace to life and limb. They are also a frequent source of expensive doctor bills and lost time. Then again, they are likely to eat up the original cost in repairs before they are replaced.

Concrete walks are slightly, everlasting and safe. They cost less to build and need no repainting.

Write for our free book, "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete."

It tells in plain, simple language, how you can save money on farm construction by using cement for barns, dairies, foundations, fence posts, troughs, feeding floors, hitching posts, stalls, silos, stairs, and so forth.

The book is well illustrated with photographs, plans and diagrams. Fill out the coupon or send a postal to-day.

Sabbath Observance

Editor Pioneer:

Dear Sir—We notice in your issue of the 9th reference has at last been made to Sabbath desecration in our neighborhood, and as it has been said it is not the only place, we are pleased to see that this has been taken hold of at last, and it is a shame that it has been allowed to go unnoticed as long as it has. There are a class of people who only keep the Sabbath day because the laws of Canada demand it, but by degrees are getting bold enough to use it as any other day of the week. And in taking another view of the question, do these same people prosper any better than those who respect the day set apart for rest. We say no, and not nearly so well.

What impression do they make upon the children of today, and if this sort of thing was allowed to continue what a miserable state of morality we would have in our country. We have as a rule a law abiding class of people in Canada and a people who respect the Sabbath day. It is a deplorable thing to see our neighbors engaged in all manner of work, when the weather is fine day after day, having no excuse for many things engaged in, such as running movers, raking up hay, running binders. Butchering is another piece of work which is done on Sunday. This is done in a kind of a quiet way when the public eye is not much upon it. Another one of our neighbors took out his horses and did all the plowing on two Sundays that he has done this fall, and so far as we can see, has rested the other six days of the week. Cattle branding and dipping is another line of work indulged in on Sunday, and while there are many more things we could mention, we would like to make reference to a class of people who go to town on Saturday, load up and make a start and continue with loaded teams all day Sunday. This sort of work has been going on for years. There is not a Sunday that our roads are not filled with these fellows. Who will tell us that they cannot help it. A poor excuse is better than none. And they go to town to do their errands. But when they start out with the full intention of putting in Sunday, they should be arrested on the spot. Now in conclusion we would say that we have a very strict law in Canada, and a law that will in future be respected or the offenders will be brought to justice.

Canada Cement Company Reduce Prices

The price of cement has been lowered. This announcement may come as a surprise to many—for, when mergery merges, the opposite tendency is usually looked for, but this time the unexpected has happened.

About a year ago most of the largest cement interests joined hands and formed one company, known as the Canada Cement Company, Limited. It was immediately predicted, in many quarters, that prices would be advanced, that on account of the big merger the consumer would have to pay dear for his cement in future. The promoters of the company, on the other hand, stoutly contested this theory, pointing out that owing to reduction of expenses and increased efficiency, they hoped to be able to give even cheaper cement than ever before.

The first move on the part of the cement company was to regulate the price of its product, and it was an agreeable surprise to everyone when it was learned that in making the adjustment prices were not unduly advanced. That was last year.

On the 1st of November, this year, a circular was sent out by the Canada Cement Company, further reducing the price of its product throughout the Dominion on an average of about 10c per barrel.

This reduction means a whole lot, and proves beyond doubt the sincerity of the statements made by the promoters, when the company was yet in embryo. Yours, etc. WITNESS.

WILL BE GREAT SHOW.

Lord Mayor's Pageant in London Will Be Gorgeous This Year.

There has been a tendency in recent years to make the annual Lord Mayor's Show on Nov. 9 "diminished." In place of the gorgeous pageant that those who are not so very old remember as a delightful experience of their childhood, there has been a parade of men in khaki and modern uniforms of the kind which can be seen on a smaller scale almost every day on the Thames Embankment.

Elephants, men in armor, men and women in all sorts of glittering costumes, gayly caparisoned horses, gorgeously decorated floats, used to be among the glories of the show, and as a matter of fact, only the Grand Grands welcomed the "diminished" modifications that recent Lord Mayors insisted upon. Also, only the Grand Grands will object to the announcement that this year's show is to be in some respects a "return to the good old style."

At the same time, in deference to present-day ideas, it is to be somewhat "educational" character. The principal feature of the show is to be a pageant of kings, princes, nobles, and other characters of Shakespeare's plays. Philip Carr, one of the secretaries of the Shakespeare Memorial National Theatre, is to have charge of the arrangements, and London is assured of a brilliant pageant. Mr. Carr says:

"The object of the Shakespeare pageant in the Lord Mayor's Show is to excite the interest of Londoners in the forgotten Shakespeare, and to give a fitting tribute to the memory of Shakespeare shall be raised that the memorial shall be taken in hand at the earliest possible moment."

The procession will be one of the longest in recent years. The officials are careful to point out that it will be nothing "tawdry" about it—no female Britannia sitting on cushions as Deputy Mayor, chairman of the Procession Committee, put it. He added: "There will be an incident representing Henry V. passing along Eastcheap, and another of Richard III. welcoming the two princes and concluding with the Tower, with the Lord Mayor of the period present. Falstaff, of course, will be portrayed, as will be the most delicate child without fear of injury to the constitution."

NERVE AGONIES

All Nervous Diseases Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Nerves that are over-worked or weak quickly indicate their distress by pain. Joint pain may be neuralgia or influenza nerves, usually affecting the head, but often the spine and limbs. It may be nervous dyspepsia, easily started by worry, excitement or weakness. It may be St. Vitus' dance, a constant affliction among children, or neurasthenia, a condition of general nervous exhaustion accompanied by acute melancholy. Worst of all the pain may indicate the early stages of paralysis and nervous exhaustion. A doctor should signify that the hungry nerves are clamoring for nourishment in the form of good, rich blood. The numerous cases of the above named nervous diseases and weakness in both sexes by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are accounted for by the fact that these Pills actually make new, rich blood and so supply the starved nerves with the vital elements needed to strengthen them. Mr. Wm. G. Jones, Westmead, Conn., says: "A few years ago it was my misfortune to suffer from nervous debility, brought about through a severe attack of la grippe or influenza. When the first effects were felt I used to wake up in the middle of sleep trembling like a leaf, and in a bath of cold perspiration. Later the trouble grew so bad that I scarcely got a wink of sleep, and would toss about in bed, growing so weak that I could not get up. A doctor called in, and then another, but without avail. I became more and more low and nervous, and my nervous system began to return, my nerves grew stouter and in a few weeks more I was feeling as well as ever. I had my life, and I may be sure I will always gratefully recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to every one who is suffering from nervous debility or whose nerves are restored to health and strength after all other medicines had failed."

He Took His Biscuit.
Concerning his early stage experience, Mr. Gerald du Maurier, who has had such a good send-off as actor-manager at Wyndham's Theatre in London, with "Nobody's Daughter," tells an amusing story. At short notice he had agreed to play Pelles at Mr. Patrick Campbell's Melodrama at a Birmingham theatre. "I remember," says Mr. du Maurier, "that I was a pair of cranky boots. They creaked every step I took. Ye gods! how that Birmingham audience yelled with laughter! At the end of the performance the manager came to me and said, 'Du Maurier, I congratulate you, I never saw any actor in my life draw such volleys of laughter in a tragic part. You take the biscuit.'"

English Coronations.
For a long time in English history white has been considered the unlucky color for coronations. Charles I. wore white vestments when he was crowned.

THE PIGEON GUILLOTIN.

Little Known Bird That Inhabits the Pacific Coast.

Few people imagine that there is such a marked dissimilarity in the temperament of the different varieties of sea birds, writes H. H. Patten in The Toronto Globe. The gull is very domestic, with no sense of humor or spirit of fun. Whether the bird is soaring in the air or swimming in the water, it is always the same. It is ever on its dignity. The guillemot, on the other hand, is just the opposite. When seen flying close to the surface of the water it moves with spirit, and often seems to be racing. When in its real home, however, during the nesting season, is where it really enjoys itself.

About a thousand guillemots make their summer homes on Bare Island in the Gulf of Georgia. There they spend several months, during which period they raise their families, and incidentally have a most enjoyable time. There are a great many gulls on the island as well as the guillemots, but while they live very near together, they do not associate in the true sense of the word. The guillemot, on the other hand, is the smaller birds, but they never take part.

"Fruit-a-tives" are about the size of pigeons, which they very much resemble in appearance. Their wings are so short that they are called "pigeons," and their feet are webbed. Owing to the fact that their wings are so short, they have to move them very fast. Still, they fly well, and rise from the water with ease. They do not rise like a gull, getting their food from the water. In color they are black, with white markings on the wings. They fly about in flocks, but in place of this they spread their feet behind them when flying, using them as a rudder, in the same way as a bird does.

During some days on the island I saw a little chum and I spent hours watching the birds in their games and securing photographs. "Tag" is the favorite game. Usually the game is played by two birds, although sometimes three or four take part.

Pictures to yourself hundreds of the birds sitting on the rocks along the shore. The birds are very tame. Some are almost asleep, others are talking to each other with the peculiar hiss which is their note. After all, they are trying to crowd their neighbor off the rocks. One stands erect and gives another a flap as if to challenge him to a race. At once he is away, and the other after him away out to sea. The birds are very tame. Rider Haggard's Luggage.

It is really a touching thing—the veneration an Englishman has for his luggage. A few years ago Rider Haggard was being interviewed by a crowd of Canadian reporters, by whom he was surrounded in his room at the hotel, all ready with pencil and pad to hear what he had to say about South Africa, the novel he had just published. "No, I really can't say a word till my luggage arrives," he said. "I say, 'luggage,' to his attendant again, 'these blessed trunks anywhere in this country?'"
"Ah! Thank heaven! Here they are!"—into the room came tumbling a rampart of boxes. Instant relief! The attendant then opened the boxes to see if everything was all right as he had packed it, then he shut down the lid and said, "I can't say a word until it is all right." He gave his experiences to the press.

Valley of the Jordan.
The valley of the Jordan constitutes the deepest depression on the face of the earth, the level of the sea being over 700 feet below the level of the Mediterranean, while the Dead Sea is over 1,200 feet below the level of all the oceans of the world.

A False Report

This is the way a paragraph on the Alberta Hockey League read in the Morning Albertan last week: "His (President Doc Gibson, Calgary), is to get the two Calgary clubs in a district with Didsbury, Lacanville, and Stettin. Didsbury has signed up the best of last year's Ods team and will be very fast. All the clubs are good."

Manager J. V. Berscht of the local club immediately wrote Dr. Gibson asking where he got his information as it was absolutely untrue that Didsbury had signed up Ods players. This is the Dr's answer:

Mr. J. V. Berscht, Didsbury, Alta.

Your letter of Nov. 18th at hand with enclosed clipping cut from the Albertan regarding hockey. In your letter you ask for an explanation as to how and where they got their information. In regard to same I was around to see the reporter of this paper and he informed me that he got his information from the manager of Ods.

Yours truly,
Doc Gibson.

Didsbury does not have to sign up outside players. We have plenty of first class material right here and to show at the end of the season that whatever other towns may have been doing in taking in outsiders, Didsbury will have won what honors she may have by a purely local team, the only way in which these clubs will receive the unlimited support of the public.

Opened Under New Management

Gleanings Recorder: "Mr. Ford McCarney, who left Gleanings a month ago, has returned to Didsbury, Alta., where he has taken a five years' lease of the Hotel Alexandra. Didsbury is a thriving town about 40 miles north of Calgary, and the Alexandra, a 30 room house, is the leading hotel of the place. Mr. McCarney has the experience of a lifetime in the hotel business, having seen to the manner born, so that in running this enterprise he is well qualified to make a success of it, with no doubt, will, he speaks in strong praise of the hospitality of the western people, many of whom could not have conceived for him had they been along friends. The hotel is being refitted through out."

Mr. McCarney, as stated in the above clipping, is refurbishing the hotel and will also have it papered and painted throughout. He is determined that if hard work and good management count for anything that he will have a quiet, clean, comfortable house, not only for the traveling public but for his local patrons also.

Mr. McCarney has had considerable experience in conducting hotels in Ontario and he gives us to understand that the Alexandra will be run along right lines. Call on him and get acquainted.
